The evening consists of a parade and three classroom periods where the cadets learn various topics from aerospace, Military ranks and history to leadership.

Volunteers are needed

As an adult volunteer you can play several roles within the cadet program. Most volunteers, often parents of a cadet, will become involved with the Sponsoring Committee, and will help out through being a member of the Squadron Sponsoring Committee, volunteering as much time or expertise that they may have. Members usually meet monthly virtually or in person, depending on the activities of the Squadron.

What is the Squadron Sponsoring Committee? (SSC)

The aim of the SSC is to assist the Squadron in a variety of different support and financial roles. The Canadian Armed Forces (CAF) provides uniforms and partial funding to the training program; however, the SSC is responsible to provide any additional funding necessary, e.g. facilities, operation and remainder of training expenses for the Squadron. This may require fundraising for items such as instruments for the Pipes & Drums Band, or additional activities. However the 327 Squadron has two major Sponsors: The Montague Legion and the Montague Lions Club, therefore fundraising is not always necessary.

Informally, the SSC also may assist with coordination for a variety of other events such as Squadron potluck dinners and community fundraising activities; provides support for Squadron events such as competitions and parades; assists with arranging for transportation needs and ensures adequate supplies are on hand. The SSC works closely with the Squadron staff to keep apprised of upcoming activities to ensure adequate support is provided to meet the ongoing needs of the Squadron. SSC volunteers are not permitted to have “care and control” of the cadets - care and control of cadets belongs exclusively to CAF/Squadron Officers.
