ABOUT THE AIR CADET LEAGUE

AIR CADET TRAINING PROGRAM

"Being part of 630 Beauport Squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Cadets as a teenager provided me an excellent foundation for my career in aviation and with the Canadian Forces . . .

Taking part in the various activities and participating in the summer camps gave me the opportunity to develop skills and personality traits that are required and used everyday in my present career: interpersonal skills, public speaking, reliability, discipline, and assertiveness."

- Lieutenant-Colonel Maryse Carmichael, first female Commanding Officer of 431 Snowbirds (Air Demonstration) Squadron

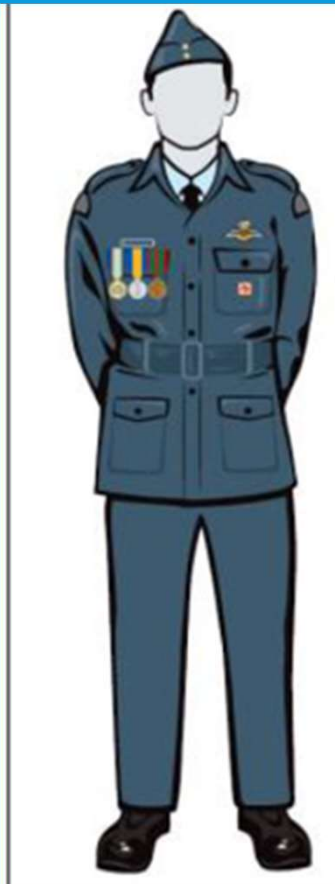

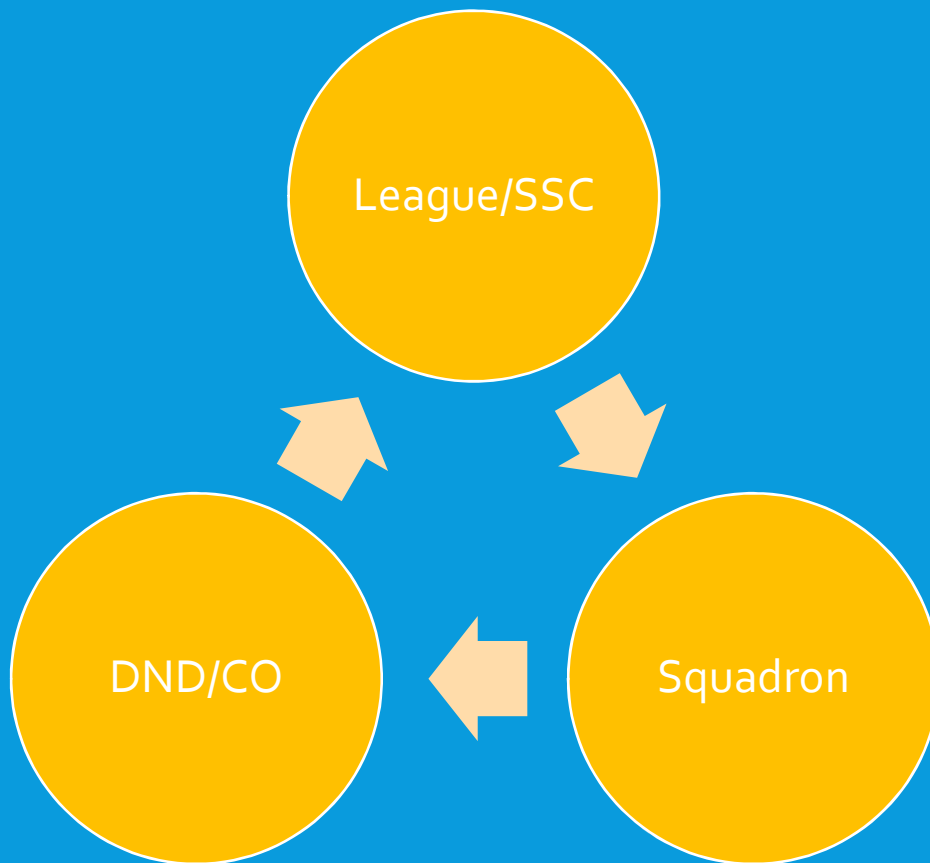

PREPARING TODAY'S YOUTH FOR TOMORROW

- ➔ Over 250 Air Cadets on PEI
- ➔ 60% male 40% female
- ➔ Air Cadet graduates work in aircraft maintenance, air traffic control, aerospace industries, pilots and astronauts. (Chris Hatfield).
- ➔ Cadets receive, free of charge, numerous hours of training under expert leadership receiving a rigorous education in diverse skills and content, beyond what most youth experience.
- ➔ The Air cadet program purports a culture of service and citizenship as premier values of life
- ➔ Cadets puts an emphasis on being part of a team and on learning to lead a team
- ➔ Cadets provides a progressive scope and responsibility leading to competence and confidence.

ONE ENTITY

Although the squadron officers and staff along with league volunteers are visible in the community, the public mostly sees the cadet/ the uniform.

THE SQUADRON THE SPONSOR(S)

Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 9

THE SQUADRON SPONSORING COMMITTEE

The vast majority of League volunteers work at the community level as part of the Sponsoring Committee and are regarded as the backbone of the Air Cadet movement.

BENEFITS OF INVOLVEMENT

To volunteers

- Feeling of pride, fellowship, and common loyalty shared by the members
- Opportunities to learn new things
- A way to help others

To community

- Cadets will have a positive impact on local communities, contributing to community strength and vibrancy.
- Cadets are encouraged to become active, responsible members of their communities.

327 Southern Kings Squadron Air Cadets
